

Argentine Tango Lessons

eight-week series
February 20th - April 17th
Wednesday evenings
Northwest Labs Café

7-8pm beginner
8-8:30pm guided práctica for both levels
8:30-9:30pm intermediate

Have you ever considered learning what Martha Graham once called the fabulous dance of the past one hundred years and the most beautiful? Now's your chance!

An eight-week series of Argentine Tango for absolute beginners will meet weekly on Wednesday evenings throughout the spring semester. No partner or previous dance experience required. To follow will be a progressive intermediate series designed for those who took lessons with us last year or for those with prior experience.

Open to the Harvard community and guests. Students: $70; guests: $90. Class size is limited, so register early in the Dudley House Office, located on the third floor of Lehman Hall, beginning on Tuesday, February 11th. No need to sign up with a partner; partners will rotate throughout the class. Brought to you by Dudley Arts and the Harvard Argentine Tango Society. For more information, contact HATS at hats@hcs.harvard.edu.
